What is this product?

Type

1 Year GBPUSD Forward Exchange Contract - Option Date

Objectives

The product objective is for you to buy one currency amount and sell another currency amount at a pre-agreed forward exchange rate.

The product achieves this by Barclays agreeing with you (i) the forward exchange rate, (ii) the currency amount that you will buy, (iii) the currency amount you will sell, and (iv) the period within which exchanges may take place.

The product allows you a period of time between two agreed dates, the start date and the maturity date, to take delivery of the currency. Settlement can be on any business day or days within the two dates but you must settle by the maturity date and the sum of the currency amounts exchanged must equal the pre agreed amounts.

The product return depends upon the value of the currency amounts exchanged relative to the then prevailing FX spot rate on the date of exchange. You are obliged to exchange the contractual currencies at the agreed forward exchange rate on the date of exchange, even if the prevailing FX spot rate on that date may be more favourable.

Illustrative product terms are set out below, which are indicative and may not reflect the exact terms you agree with Barclays. The actual terms will be set out in an individual trade confirmation. The illustrative product terms used in this Key Information Document are as follows:

Trade date: 13 April 2026	Currency pair: GBPUSD	Barclays has sold to you Currency Sold: GBP 10,000 Currency Bought: USD 13,439

Intended retail investor

Retail investors who: (i) have a theoretical knowledge of derivatives that is sufficient to intuitively understand the performance of the product at a high level but potentially limited prior practical experience (informed KEU); (ii) can bear losses beyond the level of the initial investment amount; and (iii) are seeking a product for hedging purposes or investment return.

Term

The settlement date for your product will be set out in the product confirmation you receive from Barclays. The product is a bilateral agreement between you and Barclays and is entered into for its term. The product cannot ordinarily be terminated although an early termination may occur in the event of a default by either you or Barclays. In addition, the product terms provide that if certain exceptional events occur; (i) Barclays may make adjustments to the product and/or (ii) Barclays may terminate the product early. These events are specified in more detail in the product and contractual documentation.

What are the risks and what could I get in return?

⚠ The risk indicator assumes you keep the product for the full term. The actual risk can vary significantly if you end your product early and you may get back less. You may not be able to end your product early. You may have to pay significant extra costs to end your product early. You may not be able to end your product easily or you may have to end at a price that significantly impacts on the performance of your product (see the section “How long should I hold it and can I take money out early?”).

The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of the risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets or because we are not able to pay you. We have classified this product as 7 out of 7, which is the highest risk class. This rates the potential losses from future performance and poor market conditions at a very high level. If we are not able to pay you what is owed, you could incur significant losses. This product does not include any protection from future market performance so you could incur significant losses.

Be aware of currency risk. You will receive payments in a different currency, so the final return you will get will depend on the exchange rate between the two currencies. This risk is not included in the indicator shown above.

Investment performance information

The value of this product at settlement is based on the difference between the forward exchange rate agreed and the FX spot rate available on the settlement date.

When entering into this product, you agree to buy GBP and sell USD on a date of your choosing between 15 January 2027 and 15 April 2027 (the "exchange period") at the forward exchange rate of 1.3439 USD per 1 GBP. On any date in the exchange period, it is possible that the FX spot rate of USD for GBP will be better or worse than the forward exchange rate agreed for the product. The size of this difference will dictate your gain or loss on the product relative to simply exchanging GBP for USD at the FX spot rate for your chosen exchange date.

FX rates can fluctuate for a number of reasons including (but not limited to) inflation, interest rates, political factors, recession and speculation.

You can monitor the past and present level of the GBPUSD FX spot rate through many publicly available platforms.

What could affect my return positively?

If the FX spot rate on your chosen exchange date is higher than the forward exchange rate of 1.3439 USD per 1 GBP, you will buy GBP more cheaply than the FX spot rate. You will make a positive return on the product.

What could affect my return negatively?

If the FX spot rate on your chosen exchange date is lower than the forward exchange rate of 1.3439 USD per 1 GBP, you will buy GBP more expensively than the FX spot rate. You will make a negative return on the product.

Under severely adverse market conditions the GBP amount that you receive from us may be worth very little in comparison with the USD amount that you pay to us.

What happens if Barclays Bank PLC Isle of Man Branch is unable to pay out?

You may be exposed to a risk that Barclays Bank PLC Isle of Man Branch might be unable to fulfil its obligations in respect of the Forward Exchange Contract - Option Date. The product is not protected by any local investor compensation or guarantee scheme. This means that if Barclays Bank PLC Isle of Man Branch is unable to pay out, you may not receive any amount from Barclays Bank PLC Isle of Man Branch under the Forward Exchange Contract - Option Date.
